Alderman Brady spoke upon the ballot boxes having bees taken to the station house, and how that the carvassers had gone to Judge Councily's house and mote out their returns, and said that his information was that these carvassers had made out their returns on the statement of several persons who were at the policon the night of election day. He wished to know if that was a clear case of violation of the law; and said he believed these persons, as canvassers, wanted the Board to receive their returns with all those informalities. He wished to see this district legally represented, and did not want to see the election of this city made a mere farce. The carvassers complied with no law, as they did not attend to their business; and he did not see how the Board could receive the returns. Alderman Tronky then took up the subject, and went into a long discussion on its different parts. He said the canvassers went to the station house and tried to get the ballot boxes, and that they were refused them by the police authorities; and they (the police authorities) were the parties that ought to be censured, and that affi-daylis were made to that effect, and showed how it was not the canvassers' fault, but the poli clerks. He did not believe a ticket was taken out or put in the boxes from the time they were taken from the poll. He said if it was a case where the Mayorally was concerned, the Board would theroughly investigate the matter, and wished them to establish this case as a principle for action in future. He was decidedly averse to throwing out the district.

Alderman Stars did not believe it was the intention of ty member to do injustice to any one; that they know sere was an election held in the ward, and referred to to facts which the committee gave reported on the suband that the canvassers has not make any returns. Insertered to the decision of the Court of Errors in a similar case.

The Chair stated that the question before the Board was to receive the returns of the canvassers from Alderman Seagrist, and that the Clerk had declined receiving them. Alderman Owavs said that he believed a proposition had been made to receive some returns, and thought it was not right to receive some returns, and thought it was not right to receive any which were not official, as they would be establishing a very dangerous precedent if they received any like the ones offered.

Alderman Gaver said he merely wished to say one word on the question, as it was a very knotty one, and that was that the judgment and actions of the present Board would be a precedent for the future action of every Board of Canvassers, and said that the Clerk was bound to receive the returns. He said the Board could not vitate or disfranchise this district, and read a passage from the "Election law" to support what he said. He said the canvassers had presented their returns, and it was right, in his opinion, to canvass them. It was the most important question that had ever come before a Board of Canvassers, and it would determine whether a Board of Canvassers had a right to disfranchise a district rout. The canvassers had even an excuse to go before a Grand Jury with. He said they were driven from the polis by riotsus people, and yet had done their duty, and asked how these gentiemen could be punished. He held they could not.

Alderman Brancky thought it was not a light mat-

He held could not learn an Braden thought it was not a light matches the Board could pass over with, and e his views on the circumstances of the case. He said should like to know how they could now decide that Wood or any other person had received so many es, when they could not do so a few days ago, and ught that was sufficient reason to throw out the dist, and claimed that if they then could make out any trust hey would have cone so before. Now, I cannot, the life of me, see how the Board can receive them, claim that by throwing out this district is will estable a healthy precedent. The canvasser's have no excuse of prevented them from doing their duty they could got the whole police force to protect them. He red to the report sworn to before the committee apted to investigate the matter; and said the was not pared to receive the returns ten days after the proportand ending the said of the continuous and canvass the returns of the Twenty second ward, exclude the Fourth district return.

Alderman SEAGRET rose to a point of order, and said that the canvassers, afraid of being indicted, had canvassed the returns on the mpt of the election.

The Chair had the strated difficulty in maintaining order as this stage of the proceedings.

Alderman Owess again arose and made some remarks, saying that the returns were invalid and should not be received.

It is set forth in the complaint that the resolution hat been passed by the Board of Councilmen and the Board of Aldermen, that it had been vetoed by the Mayor, and readopted by the Board of Councilmen by a vote of sixteen to three, and that the same was before the Board of Aldermen for their concurrence. The other papers now before the Court show that the resolution was again passed by the Board of Aldermen on the 5th of September, 1859, the same day the complaint was verified, two thirds of all the members elected having voiced therefor, whereby it became a lopted. It was held by Justice figraliam that passing the resolution was a legislative act, and that the defendants could not be enjoined from any legislation they might deem proper; and following that decision, aside from the facts that the resolution has passed and is in force as far as it could be made operative by the defendants, I shall hold that an injunction against the passage of the resolution cannot be granted. Dre. 12—John Charles Macaboy, a seaman, was given into the charge of officer Vanderzee, of Harbor Police No. 6; also a young man as a witness. These prisoners had been sent home by the United States Consal at the Azores by the ship Affantic, under the following circumstances:—They had both sailed from Now Bedford on the ship Japan, Captain Grant, in the spring of the year, on a whating yoyage. In June, Macaboy told the witness that he had a quarrel with the mate, and had make up his mind to set the ship on fire, so as to be satisfied, and have it out with the mate. He asked this witness to be his companion, and the latter promised he would. On the 15th June the larboard watch was called in the afternoon, as whales were in sight, and the boats ordered to put off. Macaboy volunteered to go, but was ordered off by the made, and in a short time after the boats had left the ship was on fire, but by prompt measures the flames were subdued and the prisoner secured. The accused was committed for examination.

Before Recorder Bernard.

Due 15 —As soon as the Court was opened this morning, the Assistant District Attorney addressed the Court in reference to the indistment found yesterday by the Grand Jury against Charles Woodward and Belkinap Bowers, of the Third precinct, for an outrageous assault upon Jane McCord. He said that the first intimation he had that the case had been used before the Court of Special Sessions was from the statement of one of the officers yeaterday. It appeared that those men were satually before the Special Sessions and present in that Court at the time they were arrested on the bondo warrant which was issued on the fluiding of the indictinent. He need scarcely say to his Honor, ner to the justices composing the Special Sessions, that no person connected with the public presecution would have been guilty of the disrespect of undertaking in review the judgment of a co-ordinate tribunal. He understood some public notice had been taken of this matter; he hoped some notice would be taken of the explanation that he made. The officer was turnabed with the warrant, and he simply did his duty is arresting the officers.

The Assistant District Attorney moved that Bowers and Woodward be discharged on their own recognizances, for he had no doubt that justice would be done to them in the Special Sessions.

The prosecuting officer was led to make these remarks from the fact that when the Sheriff of the General Sessions was in attendance at the Tombs to arrest the officers, the justices felt that their dignity had been wounded, and gave vent to their indignation by a fjourning the court.

General Nye, who was in attendance this morning in and gave vent to their indignation by afjourning the court.

General Nye, who was in attendance this morning in the General Sessions, furnished the requisite evidence showing that Bowers and Woodward were tried and convicted of the offence for which they were indicted by the Grand Jury, and he therefore moved to quash the indictment, which motion was granted by the Recorder.

The defeddants, it was said, would be sentonced in the Lower Court in the atterneon.

Kate Smith, a domestic, charged with stealing $32 in money from Martha A. Bigelow, pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was gon't to the penitennary for dive montts. Fatrick Gallagher was tried and convicted of assault and battery on Edward McWilliams. He was jointly indicted with a man named McKenna. It appeared that McWilliams assaulted Gallagher some time ago, and was under conviction for the offence when he gave his testimony. At the conclusion of the trial McWilliams was sentenced to the Ponlentiary for nine months. Gallagher was remanded for sensence.

Charles H. Wilson was also acquitted of grand larceny, he having been charged with stealing, on the 6th of December, a lot of books and a coat, worth $50, the property of Thomas Crane, 108 Madison avenue. Four boys, named Charles Cavanagh, Thomas Goodwin, Michael Garvey and John Motirath, were convicted of stealing $44 worth of worsted articles from a showasse in front of the store of Pauline Eloline, 356 Hudson street. They were caught in the act by an officer, one of the theves being actually inside of the showcase handing out the goods when they were arrested. Goodwin and Garvey were sent to the House of Refuge. Cavanagh was sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for two years and six months, while MoGrath was sent to the same institution for two years and four months.

Michael O'Brien, a small boy, baving pleaded guilty to larceny, was sent to the House of Refuge.

Robert Sturges, who was indicted for a felonious assault upon officer Demerest, of the Ninth precinct, by attempting to stab him on the 29th of November, pleaded guilty to assault and battery. He was bailed and ordered to appear on the last Saturday of the term for sentence. Wm. Y. Clark pleaded guilty to obtaining goods under false pretences, and he, too, was remanded for sentence. He obtained $20 worth of knives and forks by falsely pretending that he was employed by the firm of Corning & Co., and wassen to purchase the goods, which turned out to be a falsehood.

Maria Lambert was tried and convicted of picking the pocket of Mrs. Maria H. Stoddard, 200 Madison avenue, on the 26th of November, while looking into a shop window in Broadway. Her purse; contained $43 money. The prisoner was sent to the penitentiary for two years and three menths.
